COUNTY COMMISSIONERS ASKED TO IMPROVE OLD "STATE ROAD"

Petitions Urged
From Lincoln Highway
To Moultrie — Stark
County Line.

LISBON, O., Jan. 26.—Petitions have been filed with the county commissioners seeking the permanent improvement of the old "State road" extending from the Lincoln highway through New Garden, New Alexander and Chambersburg to Moultrie, where it will connect with the Moultrie-Stark County road. The latter highway will be surfaced this spring.

The road passes through Guilford in Hanover township, the location of the new state park.

It is said that the commissioners look with favor upon the improvement of this road, but it is not likely that any work will be authorized until the county is in a position to finance its share of the work.

Don't Neglect Salvation,
Warns Rev. W. H. Baker

Discourse at Revival in First Church of Christ
Based on Second Chapter of Hebrews.

"The Great Salvation" was the theme of Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the First Church of Christ, who spoke last night to a large throng of people who had assembled for the revival service. To those neglecting it, he averred, there would be none, so matter how excellent their qualities might be.

His discourse was based on the first three verses of the second chapter of Hebrews with particular emphasis on the striking interrogation in them: "How shall ye escape if ye neglect so great salvation?"

The Rev. Mr. Baker took special note of the "great" of the query. "Why should salvation be considered great?" he asked. He replied by asserting it was so because it had been formulated by God and not by man.

"Salvation was wrought by Jesus Christ on the Cross. This alone would make it great, if for no other reason. Then it is great because of its universality, enabling all to partake of it, if it is but accepted," he said.

China recently held in Shanghai a comprehensive national exhibit.

Appealing Songs.

"Salvation has qualities of greatness in that it is absolutely free, it is given by God to man as a gift.

"Its greatness is further enhanced by the fact that salvation absolutely works for men and women who believe and trust in God. It does not fail.

"And finally it is great because it is God's only power to save men from their sins. God has many powers but only one by which He saves from the dominion of sin."

He stressed also the part played in the neglect of salvation. This shortcoming, serious for mankind, is fatal, he held. "One can be of good heart, be a fine neighbor and an appealing father and mother and yet be so neglectful that salvation is lost." He urged that it be accepted and not neglected.

As a preliminary to his sermon another appealing service of song was had under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Blard, of Poteau, Okla.

Substantial Reductions

DODGE BROTHERS SENIOR

WHEN THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six was announced, at the beginning of the new year, at prices so low as to overshadow any previous Dodge Brothers accomplishment, its universal public acceptance marked a new peak of popularity even for Dodge Brothers cars.

Public recognition was quickly translated into an unprecedented sales volume with an attendant increase in manufacturing efficiency and economy which now favorably affects its companion car—the Dodge Brothers Senior—and permits substantial reductions in the prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models.

The new lower prices at which the Dodge Brothers Senior henceforth will be sold are directly traceable to the established Chrysler policy of giving the public immediate benefit of every economy due to more efficient manufacturing methods, lower overhead costs and savings effected by the great unified purchasing power of Chrysler Motors.

Not only are these savings now passed on to the public in the form of much lower prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models, but the cars themselves have been made still better.

Examine the Dodge Brothers Senior in your most critical mood. Scrutinize each small detail. Be most exacting in your inspection. For once you have subjected the Chrysler-built Dodge Brothers Senior to your most diligent and careful inspection you are certain to realize that never before has a car so large, so handsome and so fine been available at so low a price.

McArthur Defied G. H. Q.'s Armistice Eve Order, "Capture Sedan If It Costs Every Man"

Will Irwin, Noted Correspondent, Tells "Inside" Story.

Refusal of Major General McArthur, commander of the Forty-second (Rainbow) division to carry out an order issued by the general headquarters of the A. E. F. on the night of November 10 to "capture Sedan if it costs every man in your division," saved the United States thousands of casualties on the eve of the armistice.

This is the opinion of Will Irwin, noted war correspondent, who spent six years in Europe during and after the World war, and who was a guest of the Chamber of Commerce at the annual dinner in the Travelers' hotel Thursday night. Irwin, as a news writer, was on the "inside" of military operations of the American French and British armies during the war.

According to Irwin who said the story was confirmed by the Rev. Father Francis P. Duffy, New York congressional medal of honor man and often termed "the fighting chaplain of the 69th Infantry," Major General McArthur, who was in the front lines with his Rainbow division on the night of November 10, tore up the order to attack Sedan, knowing the Armistice was to go into effect at 11 o'clock the next morning. Sedan, which had been strongly fortified by the Germans, could not be taken without a heavy toll, McArthur knew.

McGlachlin Also Received Order. Later in the evening Major General E. T. McGlachlin, commanding the famous First division, arrived at McArthur's headquarters to confer with him regarding the drive, the same orders having been issued to the First. McGlachlin said that he was not disposed to ignore the order but felt that the attack on the eve of the armistice was folly.

McArthur discovered upon questioning McGlachlin, Irwin says, that he held a higher rank than the First division leader. Unable to dissuade him from his intention of attacking the city, McArthur placed McGlachlin under arrest, ordering him to be confined to his headquarters until noon of November 11, thus preventing the attack.

Refusal to Obey Saved Thousands of Americans.

McArthur escaped court-martial for his violation of orders, and after occupying a sector in Germany for several months returned to the United States with his division in the spring of 1919.

Since the World war Irwin has been engaged in writing for newspapers and magazines. He was attached to the Republican national headquarters during the 1928 campaign, and representing a news syndicate accompanied Herbert Hoover on his good-will mission after the election. Irwin and Hoover were classmates at Stanford university, California.

Irwin's present lecture tour started this week, his East Liverpool engagement being his third address. He spoke at Newton, Mass., suburb of Boston, Monday, and on Wednesday night was in Rochester, N. Y. He left here for Cincinnati where business matters will occupy his attention for two days. He is scheduled to visit Indianapolis Sunday, and from there will make a speaking tour of the middle west, returning home February 6. His wife is the former Inez Haynes, novelist.

Oscar W. Underwood

The nation today mourns the death of former United States Senator Oscar W. Underwood, who for 36 years sat in the halls of congress as an adopted son of Alabama.

The veteran Democratic leader, whose name was in every radio listener's ear during the memorable Madison Square Garden convention in 1924, when Alabama cast her 24 votes for him from the first to the last ballot, could point to longer service in public life than most members of his party.

Born in Kentucky 66 years ago, a lawyer by profession and a public servant by choice, he was recognized as one of the ablest men ever to serve in the house or senate. He was the floor leader of his party during the World war and through the fight on the League of Nations. And he served as commissioner plenipotentiary for the United States in the international conference for the limitation of armament in Washington in 1921.

He was sincerely devoted to his trust, his former colleagues attest. And as Secretary of State Kellogg said, in commenting upon the shock of his death, the country has lost one of its great men and one of its most conscientious servants.

Two Families; One Home

Back in 1922, two thrifty Chicago brothers and business partners conceived the idea of enjoying married life at a decided reduction in the cost ordinarily experienced by people in their circumstances. Their idea was that, aside from the additional cost of food and clothing, two families could live as cheaply as one by living in the same dwelling. One car would do for both; one telephone would suffice. Why two refrigerators when one would serve the purpose? Their plan would mean the cutting in half of the fuel bill and the work of looking after the furnace. The lighting, water and the ice bills would be halved, and one piano would furnish them music. So they and their sweethearts were married at a double wedding, which saved the cost of an extra ceremony, and the four moved into a bungalow they had built.

The two brothers breakfasted together, went to work and returned home together. What the wives did during the day hasn't developed, but the four dined together and at night sat in the living room together and the brothers talked business. It was a great life for the brothers, but hardly so much could be said for the lives of the wives. It's a miracle that they stood it the seven years they did. They were unhappy. Each wife felt that her husband had more in common with his brother than he had with her. They resented the lack of attention from their husbands, and there were quarrels, and the upshot was the filing by the wives of two divorce proceedings almost identical in terms, in which extreme cruelty was charged.

Had they but known it, the brothers' plan for household economies was doomed to failure from the first. No house is big enough for two women whose rights and responsibilities are equal. Every married woman wants a home of her own, no matter what her circumstances may be, to manage and care for as her own, and she should have it.

Saving Niagara

One cannot eat his cake and have it. So runs an old saw. It seems, however, that we have an exception in the case of the recent treaty signed by representatives of the governments of Canada and the United States, wherein it is provided that more water is to be diverted for power purposes, yet the beauty of the Falls will be increased.

In light of the criticism, which for years has deplored the fact that the power companies were using so much of the water that the beauty of the Falls was materially lessened, it seems strange at first hand that the two governments should grant the use of 10,000 more cubic feet a second. There must, indeed, be some compensation elsewhere, for neither the people of Canada nor those of the United States would be disposed to mar the scenic beauty of Niagara for the purpose of commerce.

Now it seems that there are those who believe that Niagara is slowly committing suicide, that within all too few years the water will have eaten back the cliff so that the Horseshoe will have receded upstream into a less beautiful setting, and that the cutting of a deeper channel will divert so much water to the north side that the American Falls will become a mere trickle. Extreme pessimists even argue that, given enough years, Buffalo will have possession of the Falls for awhile and then Lake Erie will be drained.

The reason for the treaty seems not to be associated with any fear of a suicide of the Falls. It is rather an effort to stay its "execution" by man and at the same time allay the desires of the "executioners" by giving them the right arm of the condemned. It proposes to patch up the mutilated victim with an artificial member.

People who have visited the Falls through a number of years have noted the lessened flow on the American side and on the Canadian side near Goat Island. This change, it seems, comes not so much because of the amount of water used as it comes from the fact that a deeper channel, due to the cutting back, has allowed more water to flow over the Horseshoe. It is proposed, therefore, to build submerged wires above the Falls which will direct the water toward the ledges which are now dry or have a shallow flow. Thus, it is argued, the water will be spread over a much wider edge with less cutting back everywhere. The Falls will be saved thereby and made much more beautiful.

"Can't Beat The Street"

"You can't beat the Street," said Jackie Field recently about getting the better of Wall Street. Field, who passed on a few days ago, had been at the game for 58 years. He saw his initial shoe string of $10 grow into a fortune of seven figures. He sold his $19,000 Exchange seat for $152,000. Yet he said, "If I had it to do over again I would be a bricklayer."

One does not know how to take this man. Either he knew that he was an unusual streak of luck, which many of his acquaintances did not share, or he believed that he had ability beyond that of the ordinary run-of-mine investors and speculators. In either case he expresses a sentiment to which a legion others can say, "Amen."

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26.—Many people subscribe to the oft-repeated statement that every man has two countries—his own and France. Many others say that every man has two countries—his own and Ireland. Assuredly the Emerald Isle and its destinies have fascinated many peoples and therefore the remarkable new design for the first independent Irish Free State coins will inevitably attract wide attention.

Not only because they are the first independent Irish coins but also because of their remarkable design. Ireland has been using British coinage and has been thinking in terms of British money for centuries. The heads of English sovereigns have adorned such coins and as the very existence of the Irish Free State arises out of a desire for a degree of independence from English sovereigns, it naturally follows that no king's head appears.

The obverse sides of all the new coins show an Irish harp, the curious and beautiful type of harp that once through Tara's Halls the soul of music shed.

For the reverse sides of the coins representations of the birds and beasts of Ireland have been selected. The coins of higher denomination in general are adorned by low reliefs of the nobler beasts while the minor denominations show humbler creatures. All of the coins are of silver.

Of this issue the highest denomination is the half crown or, in Gaelic, the leat coroin. Upon this coin is the perfectly sculptured figure of a horse of the Irish hunter type. Ireland has long been famous for its horses. Some of the greatest winners of the Derby, the Grand National, the St. Leger, and other famous races have been won by Irish stock and half the horses in the English hunting fields were sired in Ireland. The Dublin horse fair is an annual event to which come buyers from all over Europe. Ireland has supplied remounts for half the armies of Europe.

The two shilling piece shows a game fish, curved in likeness of a salmon which has leaped out of the water and is whirling about.

A bull, with head bellicently bent and horns advanced, appears upon the shilling piece. His tail lashes and the huge muscle of his body seem almost to quiver.

On the sixpence or real, as it is in Gaelic, is the splendidly sculptured figure of an Irish wolfhound. This animal somewhat resembles the Great Dane save that the head is longer and narrower. In life it is a huge beast. He stands rigidly at attention.

Then come three minor coins: the three-penny piece, the penny, and the farthing. The first shows a startled hare with ears thrown alertly back, alarm in its eyes, seemingly ready to spring into flight. The penny piece is a hen with a brood of chicks. The hen is half-spreading her wings while beneath them the chicks peck at the ground. The farthing displays a game bird, the woodcock, in full, strong flight.

All of these are unusual, but the most unusual of all is the design of the halfpenny. It consists of a huge sow with a numerous litter of tiny pigs following her. Every one of these representations is perfectly sculptured. The artist has taken as much care with the lowly sow as with the noble horse and dog.

The new coinage comes about through the action of the Irish Minister of Finance in appointing a committee headed by Senator Yeats which issued invitations to noted sculptors to submit designs. Jerome Connor, formerly a resident of the national capital here and once a co-worker with Elbert Hubbard, the famous Roycroft, Paul Manship of New York, Carl Milles of Sweden, Publio Morbiducci of Rome, Albert Power, and Oliver Sheppard of Dublin and Percy Metcalfe of London were invited to make designs. A substantial fee was paid whether the designs submitted were accepted or not. Oddly enough, in view of past relations between Ireland and England, Metcalfe, the Englishman, submitted the winning designs.

The committee examined the thirty-six designs submitted without knowing by whom they had been made. Each coin design was examined and passed upon separately, it being the expectation that the design of one sculptor would most probably be selected for one coin and that of another sculptor for some other coin. But when a design had finally been approved for each of the coins it was found that they were all the work of the same sculptor, Mr. Metcalfe, the Englishman.

The new Irish coinage will be of especial interest to numismatists or coin collectors. The science of numismatics is a rather deep one. With many persons coin collecting is but a hobby but students regard coins in a broader light. They are of great aid to historians and archaeologists. It is obvious that when a coin is struck there will be upon it some design or likeness representative of some potent affairs.

Q. How was the magnolia tree named? A. J. A. It was named for Pierre Magnol, a French botanist of the early seventeenth century.

Q. How extensive is the Salvation Army organization? T. E. J.

A. According to the latest reports the Salvation Army was operating in 81 countries and had colonies and had 14,000 corps and societies with officers and cadets numbering 22,360. This was increased from 1910 when there were 8,532 corps with 13,726 officers and cadets.

Q. Did George Washington take part in the debate during the convention which framed the Constitution? T. L. C.

A. C. C. Poore writes: "Washington, the most influential and one of the wealthiest men in the country, was unanimously elected the presiding officer. Throughout the convention, Washington presided with extreme dignity. . . . Occasionally Washington yielded the chair and took the floor himself when a principle upon which he had views to express was before the house, and at such times he voted with the 'Virginia' delegation."

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre

Paris, Jan. 26.—Impressions: The long drawn out "Whoo-ee-ee-ee" of the teamsters. . . Bread boys on bicycles. . . Blue seltzer bottles on terraces. . . And the little round stores. . . Hawkers of nautical pictures on the rue de Rivoli. . . Priests in long robes on ladies' bicycles. . . Those red threads in the laundry.

Anna Gould's marble palace near the Bois. . . With its bleeding room of a crypt. . . Peasants in wooden shoes harnessed to carts. . . Black aproned wine waiters. . . The door-man with glass eye and cork arm and many hero medals at Cartier's. . . Sam's, the Parisien Reuben. . . Chocolate Menier. . . Rube's. . . Wierdly dressed old men.

The scowling and eternally suspicious concierge. . . American newsboys in front of the Cafe de la Paix. . . Furtive peep-show guides. . . Long-bearded dandies on the Champs Elysees. . . Sidewalk yuckwhats. . . Caroling birds in the Tuilleries. . . Madeleine flower sellers. . . Flaky croissants and cafe au lait.

Crowds toiling up long steps to Sacre Coeur. . . And Paris twinkling in the dusk from Montmartre hill. . . Men in black and white vests who make hotel beds. . . Low hung clouds. . . And the acres of rooftop chimneys pots. . . The clinging chill of a winter night. . . Florence Walton's gown shop. . . Onion soup.

Immobile fishermen along the Seine. . . Bookstalls and their shawled crowd-like guardians. . . Little boys in black shirts. . . Wide student hats. . . Groups watching painters at easels along the curbs. . . The detached manner of gendarmes with their shoulder capes and white clubs plucking at mustaches. . . Defense d'Affiche.

Workmen dawdling over steaming drinks in tiny bars. . . The long alley of display cases in the Ritz. . . And its ladies' bar—the Glorio Exchange. . . The dashing young man about town known only as "The Eskimo." . . Pensive nursemaids.

Friday night at the Ritz. . . The tiny hotels with huge signs: "Elevator." . . Bare-headed women in felt slippers. . . Mail carriers in Napoleonic hats. . . The red-wheeled fiacre and the red-nosed driver with his patent leather high hat. . . Sly cocottes who wink and look back.

Paris, of course, never changes. Antiquity is its chiefest charm. The only noticeable change of the year is in the new electrical display for the Citroen car on Eiffel Tower. There is a rising and falling fountain of light the full length of the structure until the name stands out in vivid relief against the plush of night. The Citroen is the flivver of France and somehow receives first consideration in traffic.

From the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune: "Mr. McIntyre is reported to be planning to withdraw from newspaper work and reside in France." Comment!

The devotion paid old favorites here is unknown on the American stage. Mistinguett, near 60, remains a darling of the music halls just as Bernhardt, an ancient crone with a wooden leg held audiences breathless to the finish. Never beautiful, Mistinguett has become so faded and wrinkled she is almost grotesque. But, like Frankie Bailey, she has stately limbs, legs or whatever they are for the current season. After seeing her this evening I somehow wished legs were still a mystery and that all of us longed again for a windy day around the Flatiron building.

A favorite eating place in Paris has taken in more territory. Formerly it was called "The Chicago Inn," on avenue de la Bordonnais. This trip I notice it has become "The Chicago Texas Inn," thereby neatly bidding for panhandle patronage. Its proprietor and chef, Willis Morgan, is a war left-over and a former dining car cook back home. He refuses to go native, serving only such dishes as corn pone, pork chops, corned beef hash, pork and baked beans, brown biscuits, fried chicken and gravy, T-bone steaks and—five minutes for a good cry—chittlins.

At my hotel for dinner this evening a sonnet for the sommelier—again they laughed when I told them I spoke French—brought one of those British waiters from across the channel with the pontifical poise that suggested an Archbishop in the family. I wanted a beef stew, but under his calm gaze selected something in high-sounding French from the menu. But it was all right. It proved to be beef stew after all. ## YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

As we go through life we pick up one disease after another. If you are thirty or forty years of age and have never been sick, you are lucky. If you are fifty or sixty and have escaped disease, it is little short of a miracle.

Of course a lot of the ailments we have are of little consequence. They may annoy us but really are not serious.

Swelling of the joints, or of a single joint, is a condition often met. Whether or not this is an important symptom depends on its cause.

What are the causes of swollen joints?

There are a number. The first that comes to my mind is an injury of some sort. An accidental blow upon the hand, the hip, the knee, or the elbow, may be followed by swelling. Following the injury there is pain, perhaps pronounced pain. Pretty soon the joint is swollen and red.

With rest and simple treatment, the symptoms disappear. If they do not, more energetic treatment will be necessary.

It is not difficult to understand the nature of a swelling due to an injury. But it isn't easy to figure out what is wrong when some underlying disease is responsible for the trouble. There are such diseases and it may be that their first sign is a swelling of one or more of the joints.

Among such diseases are tuberculosis, rheumatism, scurvy, and putrefaction in remote parts of the body. So far as rheumatism is concerned, we cannot disregard the probability that a localized infection somewhere is at the root of the difficulty.

Joint tuberculosis is entirely different from tuberculosis of the lungs, the usual form of the disease. It is not accompanied by the cough, pain in the chest and other familiar symptoms of "T. B.," as it is called by almost everybody.

Of course there may be some fever, loss of weight, paleness of the skin, the common signs of a mild form of tuberculosis. But inability to use the joint is a pretty good sign something has interfered with its function and that something may be tuberculosis.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Leave Your Grouch Behind.

Much is written about not taking home an office grouch.

Something should be said about not taking a home grouch to the shop or the office.

Disputes arise in the home at breakfast time and their effect unites the men and women who indulge in them for good work at their places of employment later.

To start work in an ill humor is a handicap.

Careful, high-grade work cannot be done under such conditions.

It may result in the whole department being more or less affected.

Do you not often start your days' work in a bad mood?

What do you get out of such impulses?

What do you do, actuated by such feelings?

Do you give way or control yourself?

What are the causes of argument in your family?

Isn't it true that you are largely responsible for them?

You know pretty well what will start a fuss, and because you don't feel just right you attack at that point—and the fight is on.

Don't do it.

HOW TALKING PICTURES ARE MADE

Director Roy Pomeroy, Evelyn Brent, William Powell, Doris Kenyon and Clive Brook making a scene for the Paramount all-talking picture "Interference" which comes to the Ceramic theatre Monday Tuesday and Wednesday. No, dear reader, those are not ear muffs on Mr. Pomeroy, but a telephone head set through which he listens to the recording of the voices of the players in a scene from Paramount's all-talking picture "Interference." Note the sound proof booth enclosing the camera and the "mike" just above the players' heads. The action takes place on a sound proof stage. The voices are picked up by the super-sensitive microphone and registered on the film. "Monitors," "Mixers" and countless other names which would only confuse the fan enter into the transition. Powerful amplifying devices that make a fly's footfalls sound like thunder crashes, used, however, to make the voices sound natural upon the screen.

Exciting Moments in Paramount's ALL-TALKING picture 'INTERFERENCE'

"These letters I have will ruin you!" The gooding threat of the scheming adventuress startles the respectable society wife. Evelyn Brent portrays the delight of the adventuress as she hears the shocks her announcement causes. You hear the gasp of amazement from her victim as it comes over the wire! It's a 100% Talking Picture!

"Understand this, Voaze—whether you die or live—my wife belongs to me!" The husband-lover prepares to fight for his wife against the man who, believed dead, returns to find his wife married to another. Clive Brook talks straight from the shoulder in these tense moments in "Interference." You hear him talk from the screen in this thrilling drama.

"It's my husband—he must never know!" The bewildered desperation of a respectable wife caught in the trap of circumstances, struggling in the grip of a sneering siren. Doris Kenyon, the accomplished screen actress, noted for her beautifully modulated voice, in the central role of the absorbing story of "Interference." You hear her talk.

"You—Phillip! I thought you... Dead!" Another dramatic moment in this dramatic story. William Powell as Phillip Voaze, the "husband who returns from the dead," faces his "widow" now the wife of a highly respected surgeon. Powell is the cool, suave, worldly-wise character grippingly alive on the screen in this important role. You hear him talk in this Talking Picture!

"Deborah, you're always wanted to make me happy?"... then get out of my life... as completely as I've gotten out of yours!" William Powell meets the woman who loves him and who "refuses to forget" in the Paramount All-Talking Picture, "Interference!" You see these great characters on the screen. You hear them talk in the emotional crises of this Talking Picture!

"She interfered with a 'splendid happiness'—an all-too-rare commodity! That was a crime I could not tolerate." William Powell looks for the last time on the woman who "loved him too much." Another stirring climax in the arousing Paramount All-Talking Picture, "Interference!" The famous play, for three years on New York and London stages, complete in this Talking Picture!

Ritzzy Rosalie

Who Rosalie wears her newest frocks she doesn't have to spend those precious extra seconds in spraying herself with perfume. Each frock has its own special perfume "woven" into the material itself. A different odor for sports, afternoon and evening frocks is a variation which pleases those who do not cling to a very special and personal essence. The Irish are being a little more practical and incorporating a perfumed finish to many linens, which possess the power to keep mosquitoes away. Dainty lingerie and hankies are being given a pine scented odor possessing qualities to prevent or cure a cold. France has been experimenting with perfumed yarns but has not surpassed the manufacturer who long ago soaked his yarns and cloths in the French wines whose colors they borrowed.

We asked them all Owner-Engineer-Critic-Dealer HOW CAN WE IMPROVE THIS OLDSMOBILE for 1929

Before changing Oldsmobile at all, the engineering staff of the Olds Motor Works consulted Oldsmobile owners, dealers, salesmen, automotive experts, and engineers at the General Motors Proving Ground... inviting criticism.

They found that Oldsmobile was too good to change fundamentally—that it was ahead of its time—that it offered many features not to be found in cars within hundreds of dollars of its price.

But certain improvements were recommended. And these have been made.

Piston pins are now pressure-lubricated—a feature hitherto characteristic of high-priced cars. And Oldsmobile's big high-compression engine now develops 62 horsepower.

Radiator shutter design was improved. The shutters now run entirely to the top of the shell.

Oldsmobile has adopted the new adjustable front seat, recently introduced by Fisher, which may be quickly and easily regulated.

Interiors have been made even more luxurious. Upholsteries are richer. Seat cushions are deeper and softer.

Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers are standard equipment.

And in addition, Oldsmobile announces a substantial price reduction!

School Pupils Hear Sermon By Evangelist J. M. Huff

Necessity of Surrender to God Emphasized in Sermon on "A Small Margin" in Chester Nazarene Church.

The necessity of a surrender to God was emphasized by the Rev. J. M. Huff visiting Olivet, Ill., evangelist, at the Nazarene church revival in Chester last night. It was "Young People's night, school pupils augmenting the attendance. His subject was "A Small Margin."

Three conversions resulted. The sermon was based on the Christy sermon: "Thou art not far from the kingdom of heaven."

The Rev. Mr. Huff declared that it was impossible to love God whom one had not seen when not able to love man that can be seen. He said it was necessary to love one's neighbors as he himself if the margin for salvation was wanted.

He pointed out how the scribes who were among those denouncing Jesus were churchgoers, given to praying and fasting, and yet did not possess this demandful margin. "It is even so now," he said. "We have those outwardly doing that which makes for entrance into the kingdom yet not possessing this margin."

Complete All-Star Cast In "Interference"

Four popular screen players have equally important parts in Paramount's screen version of "Interference" which comes to the Ceramic theater Monday. They are Clive Brook, Evelyn Brent, William Powell and Doris Kenyon.

"Interference," when presented on the stage was acclaimed as a sensational "hit" both in London, where it ran for two years, and in New York, where it held the boards for nine months. Roland Pertwee and Harold Dearden collaborated in writing the stage play, which was adapted to the screen by Hope Loring and Louise Long.

All of the four players mentioned are favorably known to film fans for their capable performances in the past. William Powell, the suave villain, steps up a notch in this picture. While portraying the part of a rogue, Powell's part gains the sympathy of the audience. Clive Brook portrays the role of a famous English surgeon and, being English himself, fills his role in a convincing manner. Evelyn Brent is cast as a revenging young lady who fails to recapture the love of Powell. Doris Kenyon is harassed throughout the picture until Powell finds a way out for her. The method he employs to gain this end furnishes exceptionally fine drama. Lothar Mendes directed the film.

announcing The New PONTIAC BIG SIX

Introducing Big Car Standards of Luxury, Style and Performance at $745

TODAY a new type of low cost motoring luxury is available. It embraces big car style. It provides big car riding comfort. It embodies big car quality in unseen parts. It includes big car performance even to the point of developing big car power and traveling at big car speed. It is offered by a brand new automobile—the New Pontiac Big Six.

Frankly, the New Pontiac Big Six was designed to appeal to a certain group. True, every motor car owner in America will find in it many things to admire. Two-car families will find it an ideal second car. But the group for which it is primarily intended is made up of people who are beginning to move up in the world. Many of them will soon make the first important step up in the quality of their cars. All are progressive. The New Pontiac Big Six was designed for them.

It comes to them entirely new in appearance. Stunning new bodies by Fisher contribute to the big car beauty and big car style presented by the car as a whole.

Progressive people are seeking greater luxury. The Pontiac Big Six offers them the luxury, the deep, richly upholstered cushions and the charming appointments for which bodies by Fisher are famous the world over.

It provides the smooth-riding qualities of a car 167 inches in overall length, with accurately balanced rotating mechanical parts and such advance comfort features as adjustable drivers' seats.

It is a six, but more than just a six. It is a six with the added power of a larger L-head engine and the added smoothness imparted by a dynamically balanced, counter-weighted crankshaft and the famous Harmonic Balancer. It is a six with the added efficiency and silence achieved by means of the G-M-R cylinder head. It is a six with the added cold-weather advantages provided by the cross-flow radiator, thermostatically controlled.

From fan to rear axle, its "line of drive" is in accurate dynamic balance. Its new brakes are of the internal four-wheel type which neither mud nor rain nor ice can prevent from operating efficiently.

As for its performance, you can drive it at express train speed. You can watch it accelerate alongside the finest cars on the road. You can test its power under any conditions, confident of its ability to pull through. Meanwhile it continues to provide that unmatched dependability for which every Pontiac has been famed.

Only a few highlights in its construction have been mentioned. Just enough to prove that the Pontiac Big Six is entirely new and capable of meeting progressive Americans' demand. But the amazing thing about it is that it gives so much big car luxury, style and performance at prices which come within practically everyone's reach!

Prices, $745 and up, f. o. b. factory, plus delivery charges. Bumpers and rear fender guards regular equipment at slight extra cost. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

FED BY HIGH MONONGAHELA, RIVER RISES

Stage of 18.9 Feet
Registered at Dam
No. 8.

TWO-FOOT JUMP

Steamer Sam Craig
Makes Maiden Trip
To Weirton.

Fed by the rising Monongahela river, the Ohio reached a stage of 18.9 feet at dam No. 8 today. The rise, two feet in the last 24 hours, is at the rate of one tenth of a foot an hour.

The steamer Sam Craig of the Union Barge Line corporation left Pittsburgh today on its maiden trip to Weirton, W. Va., where it will tow barges of tin plate from the Weirton Steel company plant to Cincinnati.

Captain James P. Kerr, a pioneer pilot on the Monongahela, Ohio and Mississippi rivers, will act as master of the steamer, while Abbott "Macgins" Foster, is chief engineer. The Sam Craig is the first of three boats to be entered in the trade. They are each 151x14x6.6, equipped with compound condensing machinery, 15x30 inches with a seven foot stroke and four boilers 28 feet long, 43 inches in diameter and six 8-inch flues. The boats are considered the most modern of their kind.

Comfort Considered

In furnishing the steamer the comfort of the crew was considered first and there is little difference between the furnishings in the state rooms of the deck hands and those of the licensed crew. The kitchen is equipped with the latest devices, while the refrigerating system is the same as used in modern hotels. A guest room for the operators of the line, including private bath, is one of the main features in the forward cabin. The lounge is equipped with upholstered furniture. Special attention was given to the pilot house, steam steering rigging and a switchboard controlling all the lights, including two 10,000 candle power searchlights placed in plain view of the pilot.

All machinery aside from being modern, were designed to be more massive than is usually found on boats of this type, and the draft of the boat is little more than on the ordinary steamers. An oil painting of the late Sam Craig, president of the Midway Barge company, who constructed the boat, and of the Treadwell Engineering company, after whom the boat is named, adorns the cabin.

Line Costs $2,500,000.

The new barge line which was constructed at a cost of more than $2,500,000, has a fleet of six cargo barges of the "bone dry" type, 21 open steel barges of the standard type and a landing boat. The officers of the corporation are Charles T. Campbell, president; Joseph H. Gilmore, vice president; and H. S. Stuckeman, secretary. C. W. Talbot and J. D. Ayres now being conditioned at the Hays Landing will be ready for the Pittsburgh and Memphis trade next month.

LIMA MAN GETS FISH AND GAME CHIEFTAIN JOB

John W. Thompson
Named by Perry
L. Green.

$3,600 POSITION

Governor Also Selects
Advisory Board of Sportsmen.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—Appointment of John W. Thompson, Lima, Republican, as chief of the division of fish and game, state agriculture department, was announced today by Governor Myers V. Cooper. The position pays $3,600 a year. Thompson was selected by Perry L. Green, director of agriculture, to succeed D. O. Thompson, Coshocton, Democrat, present incumbent. The appointment is effective immediately.

The governor also stated that the following board has been chosen to advise with officials of the state fish and game division and on all matters in the state agricultural department pertaining to conservation of natural resources:

Former Lieut. Gov. Charles H. Lewis, Columbus, chairman; Walter H. Kirk, Fremont, master of the Ohio State game; Prof. Raymond C. Osburn, Department of Zoology and Entomology, Ohio State university; I. J. Myers, Akron, representing the League of Ohio Sportsmen; Charles Lay, Sandusky, secretary, Commercial Fishermen's association; James Stuber, Columbus, secretary, League of Ohio Sportsmen; N. E. Shaw, Columbus, former secretary of agriculture; Mrs. George McDonald, Wyoming, president of the Ohio Conservation council, and Edmund Secrest, Wooster, state forester.

Explains Board Appointment. Appointment of this advisory board was in harmony with the position taken by Governor Cooper in his recent legislative message in which he declared: "The coordination of all conservation activities in one department would result in economic, as well as recreational, benefits. Pending the enactment of legislation to accomplish this, much can be done by executive order, which will be given."

The governor pointed out that the selection of this board "gives functioning power" to the fish and game division as it now exists, and has no direct bearing upon any legislative proposal to create a state department of conservation.

Conservation Groups O. K. Move. Governor Cooper and Director Green stated that many organizations and societies, including fish and game, and conservation groups, endorsed the appointment of John W. Thompson.

"John W. Thompson knows the attitude of the farmer toward the hunter and the fisherman from the city and stands for the cooperation of these vital interests," said Green.

"Thompson was born and reared on the farm and knows and understands rural people, their ways and their wishes," continued Green. "He is affiliated with all the leading farm organizations, particularly the grange, being a member of the local, county, state and national grange. He also is influential and popular in the councils of each. He has been a big game hunter and fisherman all his life."

Active in Game Protection. Thompson is president of the Allen County Fish & Game Protective association, a member of the Isaac Walton league and the League of Ohio Sportsmen. For two terms, he was a member of the Allen county board of commissioners, and was president, in 1926, of the State Association of County Commissioners.

He has been a strong advocate of conservation, protection and the extension of the hunting and fishing interests. He, particularly, advises the intensive stocking of game preserves and an increased production from the fish hatcheries of this state.

THREE FORCED DOWN IN PLANE

Aid Rushed to Air
Party in Nevada.

RENO, Nevada, Jan. 26.—Aid was being rushed today to the Boeing airplane which with three persons on board was forced down in the Ruby mountains of eastern Nevada.

Missing since shortly before noon Thursday, the plane was located just before dusk last night by Pilot Harry Hunking of the Boeing company at a point near Secret pass in the Ruby range.

One man was standing by the fallen plane which did not appear to be badly damaged, according to Hunking's report upon his arrival here.

Hold Bandit Suspects

other automobile which had followed Bananno's car from the Fifth street traffic light, the two police started the chase.

Failing to overtake the car when they reached the West End school, police called city hall and asked that Wellsville police be requested to be on the look out for the suspects. Bananno and Kelly are believed to have turned on Shadyside avenue, taking the Campground road to Wellsville. Conley and Smith drove to Third and Main street, Wellsville, and failed to locate the suspects, started back to East Liverpool.

Chief of Police John Fultz and Patrolmen Edward Fugh, Harry Reed and John Cole of the Wellsville force, in the meantime, threw a barrier of automobiles across the chondored detour between Wells avenue and Lisbon road. A few minutes later the Bananno sedan drew up and in an instant the car was surrounded. Wellsville police said that in spite of the chilly air the windshield was open, presumably to give the occupants an opportunity to use their guns in the event of trouble.

As police dragged Kelly from the automobile, he is said to have attempted to reach for a 38-caliber revolver which police later found on the floor of the car. After the men were taken to the Wellsville jail, another gun was found in the sedan.

Conley and Smith were enroute to East Liverpool when they learned of the arrests. They returned to the Wellsville city hall with Wellsville police to question the two prisoners. Grilled until 5 o'clock this morning the suspects denied the holdup of the filling station and, also other jobs. They declared they had attended the Pittsburgh automobile show and were enroute to Lima when arrested.

Find $200 in Men's Possession. In a traveling bag in the sedan, police found two sacks filled with currency and pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters.

Both men carried bills in their pockets, having more than $200 in their possession, Wellsville police said. Two extra hats and two caps were also found in the car.

Wellsville police turned Bananno and Kelly over to local police this morning. They were brought here and after being photographed by R. E. Spencer, Fourth street, were arraigned before Judge Hanley.

They pleaded not guilty. Harold S. Smith, victim of the gas station was the only witness put on the stand. He identified Bananno and Kelly as the two men who drove up to the filling station about 8:15 o'clock Wednesday night and after rifling the cash drawer, ordered him into their automobile. They took him to a point on the Wellsville-Lisbon road near Hillcrest, he said, where he was ordered to alight and "start up" over the hill. The car was then turned toward Wellsville, Smith testified.

Auto License Issued in Lima. Wellsville police called Lima police early this morning, advising them of the arrests. Lima officials told Chief Fultz that the prisoners were wanted for gas station hold-ups in Lima and also Akron.

Gasoline coupon books from a Mansfield station were also found in prisoners' possession, police said.

Kelly, who, police claim, is also known as J. E. Darling and Ralph Young in addition to Dugan, gave Toledo as his address. Toledo police who investigated, said that the person living at that address knew no one answering Kelly's description.

Bananno told Wellsville police during the examination that he was a law school graduate and had passed the Indiana state bar examination. His father is said to be engaged in the grocery business in Lima. The car carried license plates issued in Lima.

Bananno and Kelly were brought to East Liverpool by Chief of Police McDermott and Captain Conley. Revolvers, clothing and other equipment found in their car were turned over to East Liverpool authorities by Wellsville police.

Police kept the two men handcuffed while they were out of jail and police maintained a strong guard to prevent attempt to escape. They will be taken to Lisbon probably this afternoon or tomorrow morning where they will be turned over to Sheriff W. J. Barlow to await action of the April term of the grand jury.

Patrolman Smith's left wrist and right knee cap were injured in the fall to the street, it developed today.

SOUTH OPENS ITS DRIVE FOR CABINET PLACE

Stuart W. Cramer, North Carolina, is Mentioned.

ASKS NAVY POST

Cite Fact That G. O. P. Carried Four States.

By George Holmes.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 26.—The drive of the new Republican south for a place in the Hoover cabinet is daily assuming larger proportions.

While the president-elect pursues the sail fish and tarpon in Florida's celebrated keys, there is gathering on Miami Beach a formidable array of southern Republicans awaiting his return. Their numbers increase daily—in proportion to their determination that cabinet recognition must be given the fact that four states of the erstwhile solid-south became converted to Republicanism last November.

The spearhead of this drive is Stuart W. Cramer, wealthy North Carolina manufacturer, and the purpose of it is to make him secretary of the navy. He has the backing of most of the new Republican leaders of the south, who were active in the Hoover campaign. No other southern Republican has such united backing, nor is there another, south of the Mason-Dixon line, who apparently has the claim possessed by the North Carolinian.

Wilbur's Place at Stake.

For Cramer to become secretary of the navy, however, pre-supposes the elimination of the present head of the navy, Curtis D. Wilbur, who came into the Coolidge cabinet largely upon the recommendation of Mr. Hoover himself. Thus far Secretary Wilbur has not indicated that he wished to give up Washington life. Secretary Wilbur's friends contend that if he was eminent enough to command Mr. Hoover's endorsement for the Coolidge cabinet, he now is eminent enough to stay in Mr. Hoover's own cabinet.

The situation is further complicated by the fact that Wilbur and Cramer have been life long friends. They were classmates and room mates at the naval academy, graduating in the class of '88. They resigned from the navy on the same day and entered business, Wilbur going to law and Cramer to the manufacturing business. Wilbur became chief justice of the California supreme court; Cramer became the leading cotton mill owner and operator in the south.

In this connection, an interesting story is told of how they almost became cabinet colleagues in the Coolidge administration. The authenticity of the story is well established.

The story goes that after Edwin Denby had resigned as secretary of the navy, because of the oil scandals, President Coolidge had reason to anticipate the similar resignation of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general. It was his intention to bring Wilbur into his administration as attorney general and Cramer as secretary of the navy. Both were summoned to Washington. The hitch rose when Daugherty did not resign, and at that time Mr. Coolidge did not choose to ask for his resignation.

President Coolidge, the story goes, called both men to his office, explained the situation to them and observed that whereas he had expected to have two posts he had only one, the navy.

"In that case, Mr. President," Cramer is reported to have said, "there is only one candidate, my friend, Judge Wilbur."

Perplexing Problem.

Wilbur received the appointment, and Cramer returned to North Carolina to continue his manufacturing activities but not until he had spent a month with his old-time friend, and bunkmate, helping him get his departmental administration organized and under way.

Now the sponsors of Cramer for a post in the Hoover cabinet are contending that it is up to Secretary Wilbur to return the act of self-abnegation, retire voluntarily, and await the

PASTORS HOME FROM TWO-DAY OHIO SESSION

Rev. Dr. Hawkins and Wilson Smith Return Thursday.

OTHERS ATTEND

W. T. Blake Introduces Ministers to Gov. Cooper.

Having spent the greater part of two days in Columbus in attendance at the tenth annual Ohio Pastors' conference, the Rev. Dr. Warren O. Hawkins, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church here, and Wilson Smith, of St. Clair avenue, a delegate to the lay convention, have returned home.

They made the trip by motor as did the Rev. J. B. Lawther, of the First Presbyterian, the Rev. E. A. Walker, of Emanuel Presbyterian, and the Rev. R. C. Beechley, of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal churches. The latter returned yesterday.

Through the courtesy of Will T. Blake, director of industrial relations in Ohio, all of them with other ministers throughout Columbiana county, some 15 in all, were taken by him to the statehouse and there permitted to greet Gov. Myers Y. Cooper personally. They spent a pleasant interim with the chief executive just at the outset of his administration.

Executive Extends Greetings. They also were permitted to hear him Tuesday night when, as the former president of the organization, he brought the state's greetings to the assembled clergymen and churchmen.

"I know three-fourths of you personally," he declared. "I realize that I perhaps received in the recent election more united support from ministers than perhaps any other man who has ever run for the office that has been conferred upon me. I would have you know that I appraise the position as one with great opportunity for accomplishment, and I mean to make the most of it."

Gov. Cooper, the Rev. Dr. Hawkins said, was enthusiastically received by the vast audience hearing him. Dr. Hawkins was saddened greatly on the trip by reason of the fact that in Columbus he found Dr. Earl Stutz, superintendent of the Cambridge district, seriously ill there.

Hear Stanley High.

"His condition is such that he will hardly recover," he said. "He was a long time friend and one of the strong figures of present day Methodism in this section of the state. He had been a pastor in Cleveland up to three years ago when he assumed the superintendency."

Church unity and co-operation with an emphasis on education formed the dominant tone of the convention, he averred.

Bishop Francis McConnell, of New York, scheduled to be one of the leading speakers on the program, was unable to be present because of illness. His place was taken by Stanley High, member of the board of foreign missions of the Methodist church and a world traveler.

Mr. High in a significant address stressed a pessimistic view of world conditions with reference to religion, said Dr. Hawkins. He gave in conclusion the finding that the hope of transformation lay along the roadway of Christian activities. "No other religion caters as does Christianity to human needs," he affirmed. "Because they do not they ultimately can not cope with the development of Christianity. It has life inherent with growth and progress because of its humane tendencies in all lines."

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman Speaks. Dr. Parkes Cadman, radio pastor of America, Dr. Hawkins said, made a plea for more lay preachers in America along the precedent given now in Great Britain where 150,000 such are now engaged in collaborating with ministers in a dispensation of the Gospel.

"Such a movement in America will greatly advance the kingdom of God," Dr. Cadman declared. "But always these must be possessed of high character, the presence of which constituting the only orderly quality that will make for service thus indicated."

Mr. Smith was the only lay delegate to the convention from East Liverpool.

Brother Gives Blood To Save Patrolman

Transfusion Aids Officer Charles Hanlon, in Hospital as Result of Bullet Wound; Condition Reported Improved.

WELLSVILLE, O., Jan. 26.—Charles Hanlon, Wellsville policeman, accidentally wounded by his own revolver, today was reported to be improving at the East Liverpool hospital after having passed a critical point Thursday night when his condition became so serious that a blood transfusion was necessary.

The patrolman, weakened by loss of blood and facing the danger of infection, failed to rally as quickly as desired following an operation on his right leg, struck by the bullet discharged from his revolver as it fell from a holster to the sidewalk.

His condition became so grave that a brother, William, gave up a quantity of blood. The transfusion proved successful, at least for the time being. Another brother, it was reported, was to have given blood yesterday afternoon in the event that the patrolman needed it. However, hospital officials declared Hanlon's condition yesterday afternoon to be so greatly improved that the second transfusion was not necessary.

Highs Win At Bellaire, 31-22; Tackle Ferrians Here Tonight

FREDDY EDWARDS FACES ACID TEST IN BATTLE WITH TOMMY HARRIS MONDAY

Three-Ply Schedule Arranged

Reserves, Girls Billed With Newell High Teams.

EAST LIVERPOOL high school basketball again proved themselves leaders in Ohio Valley basketball when they defeated Bellaire last night at Bellaire, 31 to 22, in a rough and tumble contest.

East Liverpool girls dropped the preliminary to the Bellaire lassies, unquestionably one of the strongest girls' organizations in this section of the valley. The Red and Black lassies, headed toward the valley championship, copied by a 40-12 score.

Tonight the Potters clash with Martins Ferry and a win over the Hillman will just about determine the matter of basketball supremacy for the season between the Blue and White and her valley rivals.

Three contests, in all, are scheduled on the auditorium court. Girls' teams of high school and Newell high open the card, followed by a tilt between the Blue and White Reserves, who defeated Midland Seconds last night, and Newell high. The games are scheduled for 7, 8 and 9 o'clock, respectively.

The locals took charge of last night's game at Bellaire from the very outset, displaying a neat passing combination until roughness toward the close of the game made it more of a man-to-man proposition.

The Hurstmen led at the quarter, 7 to 3, and held at 17-7 margin at the half. Bellaire outscored the visitors in the third period but couldn't make up the deficit.

MARTINS FERRY, O., Jan. 26.—Before a crowd which packed the Martins Ferry high school gymnasium, the Purple and White basketball team triumphed 28 to 10 over a 11-legged five which seemed unable to find itself.

Ferry scored freely from the outset, six of the players breaking into the scoring columns. At the close of the first period Martins Ferry was leading five to three and at halftime this had been increased to 12 to five. Bridgeport scored five points in the third frame and the two teams went into the last quarter with the Purple out in front 20 to 10. The losers were unable to add to their total in the final period in which Ferry added eight points.

McFarland, with a trio of double-deckers and two out of six attempts at the foul line, led the way in the winners' scoring. Cotton and Douds of Bridgeport were tied for high point honors with three points each.

Strib Hangs Knockout On Stage Boxer

Looks Forward Confidently to Sharkey Bout.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 26.—With another knockout victory under his belt, W. L. (Young) Stribling looked forward confidently today to his important fight with Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach, Fla., on Feb. 27.

In his final bout before the Sharkey go, the youthful Georgia heavyweight scored a technical knockout here last night over Ralph Smith, the "stage heavy" who appeared in a New York theatrical production with Jack Dempsey last fall and was knocked out six nights and two madmen every week. Smith used to go two rounds with Dempsey and lasted little longer against Stribling. Referee Jimmy Moran stopping the slaughter in one minute and fifty seconds of the third round.

The fight was stopped after Smith had been knocked down five times—three times in the first round, once in the second and once in the third. Lefts and rights to the jaw furnished the motive power.

Captain Glumac was the star of the game and high point man, having nine goals and one foul to his credit. Alston, the colored center, made three goals but his jumping work was a big feature of the game.

Ponticella was high man for Leedsdale. The forward, Schneider, whom Midland had been warned to watch, was denied many chances to score by the Midland guards.

Sam Willaman Is First Grad As Buck Coach

Tenth to be Intrusted With Scarlet Grid Destinies.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—Sam S. Willaman, of Salem, named last week as head football coach at Ohio State university, is the tenth man to be intrusted with the development of Ohio State football teams since the inauguration of the sport.

The Salem man is also the first Ohio State graduate to be selected to direct the pigskin athletes of his alma mater.

Prior to Willaman's selection Yale, Michigan, Dartmouth, Wisconsin and Cornell graduates served as gridiron mentors of the Scarlet and Gray teams from 1892 to 1928.

The first man to be paid for training a Buckeye eleven was Fred Jack Ryder who retained his post until 1898. In 1899 Dr. J. B. C. Eckstorm came to Ohio State from Dartmouth where he had coached for three seasons. Perry Hale, Yale star, replaced Eckstorm in 1902 and remained until 1904. E. R. Sweetland, Cornell crewman and football athlete was the Buckeye mentor in 1905.

When Michigan beat Ohio State, 86 to 0, in 1902, Al Herstein made five of his career at Michigan. He coached the Haskell Indians and Purdue eleven and in 1906 became head coach at Ohio State. Two years later Howard Jones, present coach at Southern California, became coach and in 1911 he was replaced by Harry Vaughn, another Yale man who held the reins for one year.

In 1912 the Buckeye team was coached by John R. Richards, then director of the university's athletic department. In the following year, Richards recommended Dr. John W. Wilce, Wisconsin athlete, to the athletic board and he was hired. He served his sixteenth year with the university last fall. During his stay, Wilce put Ohio State on the football map, producing three championship teams, his eleven winning 11 of 67 games, losing 30 and tying 11. Five All-Americans developed under his hand, namely: Harley, Stinchcomb, Hess, Raskowski and Fesler.

Christner's Toil-Hardened Frame Refuses To Give as Sharkey Wins 10-Round Battle

34-year Old Rubber Worker Forces Gob to Limit; Ohioan's Amazing Vitality Robs Foe's Punches of Sting.

By Sid Mercer.
NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—For all the effect that his most prodigious punches had on the armored body of Meyer Wilson (Kayo) Christner at Madison Square Garden last night, Jack Sharkey might just as well have bounced his boxing gloves off the brass ring posts for ten rounds.

Don't let them tell you Sharkey wasn't hitting last night. He poured

"I have never fought a man who recovered so quickly from punches that would floor most heavyweights," said Sharkey in his dressing room later. "He wasn't hard to hit as he came at me all spread out and my knuckles are sore from smashing at his concrete ribs and chin. The man is a good fighter. I can see now how he licked Hanson."

"He has dynamite in that right hand and I had to watch it up to the last bell. He hurt me more than once, but the hardest blow he struck probably was not noticed. It happened in the fourth round when he was roughing me along the ropes. He hit me in the stomach with a right and how it hurt was nobody's business. This fellow should beat many fighters by outgaming them."

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Lightning isn't supposed to strike twice in the same place, but it did at Madison Square Garden last night, thus making an awful tramp out of the superstitious, but otherwise leaving the situation unchanged in a very marked manner. It was the same lightning with which K. O. Christner prostrated Knute Hanson a month ago and it struck exactly in the same place. To wit, the jaw. But, unfortunately it was another jaw. A rather impressive one. Jack Sharkey deftly blocked a lot of those right hands with his profile for five rounds last night and then came right on in the last five to win pretty much as he fancied, the result being that the battle of the beach front at Miami was saved to posterity.

A gallant soul, this Christner. He has the hide of the vulcanized rubber he handled in the pits at Akron and the will to make the most of his physical assets. Only the heart-whole of this life could have stood up under the right hand uppers which Sharkey belabored him in the later rounds. It is to be doubted whether Sharkey himself would have cared very devotedly for his own punches. He probably would have taken an awful licking if he had been in there leading for his own goatee.

Being the man he is, Christner's licking wasn't an awful one. In fact, the witnesses seemed to be unduly perturbed by the decision and prattled their way out of the place in a fine frenzy of indignation.

K. O. Steals Show for Five Rounds.
I am unable to account for the demonstration. According to my scoring, Sharkey won six rounds, Christner three, and one was even. At the end, Christner was punch-weary, with heavy chest and drooping legs.

But this tyro from the tire shops made a great fight against one of the ranking heavyweights of the age and needed no part of a palliation for the performance.

The fight he made, indeed, was so good for five rounds that he all but stole the show. Sharkey apparently thought he was in there with a chump, for he let Christner carry him off his feet with a series of right crosses in the opening round, and again in the fourth. He was beaten to the punch with alarming regularity, Christner throwing a right near the bell that hurt Sharkey's ancestors.

The second went to Sharkey because of the punches he dropped in Kayo's sun parlor and the third was even, so this Meyer from Oheyer was doing right well, indeed, when the fifth round opened. He started this one at the same pace, clipping John's wet leather into the unyielding flesh of this remarkable 34-year-old athlete until his arms dropped from sheer weariness, and couldn't make a dent in a frame hardened by years of toil and yet unriveted by the pounding of cruel fists.

Sharkey had to be good last night to stand off a rugged foe who wouldn't be beaten down and who returned again and again to the attack after having his head almost ripped off his shoulders and his body cruelly torn.

Experience and superior boxing ability won the decision for Sharkey and he deserved it, but Christner, a beginner at the age when most ring fighters are through, won a crowd of 19,000 by his amazing vitality, gameness and the will to brave that hail of leather.

He took everything Sharkey could deal out and never stopped winking punches. His left hand was little more than a feeler and he missed often with his right. He couldn't match Sharkey at sharp, effective body punishment when they established close contact but he could "take it" and how!

The Boston heavyweight did not escape punishment; himself but he slipped many a well meant right that grazed his chin or cheek as he turned his head. He was clipped with a dozen of Christner's best rights and was badly shaken twice or three times.

Irish-Purple Game Sellout; Bucks-Maroons in Columbus

WILDCATS NOSE OUT OHIO, 36-34

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 26.—Cincinnati's Wildcats stepped up another notch in the Buckeye f. A. A. race here last night by beating Ohio, 36 to 34. At the half the score was tied, 16 all, and six other times during the game the score was even. With one minute to play, Franz, Cincinnati guard, dropped one through the ring from the middle of the floor, giving his team the two-point margin of victory.

HORTON, DUDLEY TOP TEXAS GOLF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 26.—Horton Smith, 20-year-old Joplin, Mo., sprout and his playmate Ed Dudley, of Los Angeles, share first honors with cards of 69 each in the first round, here yesterday, of the Texas open golf tournament.

Frank Walsh of Appleton, Wis., playing in the same threesome with Smith and Dudley, tied for second honors with Danny Williams of Shakamaxon, N. J., with scores of 70. Smith and Dudley, both shooting three under par, ran into difficulty on the 16th green. The Missourian took a six after a bad approach and Dudley a five when he missed a 14-inch putt. In the 70 column are: Henry Catci, Bridgeport, Conn., Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., and Leonard Schmutte of Lima Ohio.

Weygant Is Ready For Dunn

Semi-final, Final Shape Up as Lively Scraps.

FREDDY Edwards, Chester barber-fighter, district welterweight champion, faces the acid test Monday night in the six-round preliminary on the Valley A. C. show at Wellsville when he tackles Irish Tommy Harris, Pittsburgh.

The Chester pugilist meets the Smokey city boy in a bout prefacing the eight-round main event between Johnny Dunn, one of Pittsburgh's best featherweights, and Eddie Weygant, the New Castle veteran, and a protégé of Jimmy Dime.

Edwards has had fairly smooth sailing in the scraps he has had throughout the valley but in Harris he'll be meeting a boy who's just a little tougher, knows more about the ring than most of the scrappers Edwards has fought to date and, withal, stands to give the West Virginian a genuine test of his grit and ability.

Harris has fought two bouts with Dominick Proffo, the Cecil, (Pa.) knockout sensation. He went the limit in one and was dropped in the other.

He holds wins over Jack McCarthy and George Peck (two over the former) and has lost decisions to Henry Spencer and Bill Crowe, among the better known western Pennsylvania fighters.

He's got enough ability to get on Zivic has had Edwards change his style of scrapping in several outstanding phases and the results of these improvements may be noticeable when Edwards goes into the ring Monday night.

Ray Fouts, Valley A. C. match-maker, returned last night from Youngstown where he conferred with Eddie Weygant's manager. The latter, Fouts learned, is in top condition for his bout with Dunn at Wellsville.

Weygant's record will make Dunn's look like a cradle roll roster, but the New Kensington scrapper is a more youth, as fighting age goes, compared with Dime's veteran. He will match his vitality and strength against experience and craftiness although Weygant can punch with a good many of them.

He holds wins over Gaston Charles, Blockie Richards, Harry Conlon, Jimmy Mendo, Frankie Porto, Phil Logan, Billy Wallace, Goo Stewart, Danny Frug and Eddie Brady and a number of years ago fought a draw with Sammy Mandell.

Local fans will be interested especially, in one of his recent encounters in which he fairly slaughtered Young Billy Wallace of Youngstown. The referee stopped the fight in one of the early rounds after Weygant had banged the Youngstown boy from pillar to post and back again. And every hana doesn't do that to Wallace.

Chester Teams Drop Double In Home Cage

Boys Nosed Out by County Seaters, 21-20; Girls Lose, 31-20.

Chester high school basketball teams dropped a double bill to New Cumberland scholastic passers last night on the Chester court.

The Chester boys' squad, following a great battle that was undecided until the final whistle, was nosed out by a 21-20 count by the county seaters in the last minute of play.

Keightley's charges were on the big end of a 20-19 tally when a New Cumberland field goal found its way into the basket.

Chester girls, despite a brave fight, lost by a score of 31 to 20 in the preliminary.

Rhodesia produced 14,000,000 pounds of tobacco this year.

Midland held the Blue and White five to a 6 to 0 score at the first quarter, and a 10 to 6 margin at the half. But a 9 to 2 lead for Liverpool in the third period and a margin of 7 to 5 made the down river boys the victors.

Lane of East Liverpool and Schmitt of Midland each were high point men and each made four buckets.

Mount Cagers Balanced in Point Making

Take Turns in Copping Honors as High Point Man.

ALLIANCE, Jan. 26.—In the four games Mount Union has played since the opening of the Ohio Conference game schedule, the early season predictions that Mount would have one of the best balanced scoring combinations of recent years, including the three championship teams of 1924-25-26, have been completely fulfilled. A different member of the all-veteran "Purple" five has been high man in each game.

At Akron it was Glenwright, forward, who stepped out to grab the honors; against Case, "Bob" Ball, guard, was high; against Heidelberg, "Edge" Shafer, another guard, headed the list, and in the non-conference game with Bowling Green last Saturday "Danny" Myers was leading at the final whistle. Trailing the high point man in each case has been Burke, Mount's center and key man in the offense. In the last three games he has been shy just one basket in order to lead the scoring column.

Captain Robert Wright's system of man to man defense also enables the Mount five to shift immediately into a five man offensive the instant possession of the ball is gained. Kenyon has the job of stopping these five scoring aces on the Alliance court this Friday evening.

CAPITAL U. FIVE WINS SEVENTH

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—Capital university basketball made it their seventh straight win here last night in a hard fought game with the Pioneers from Marietta, coming from behind in the last period to top a 36 to 27 score. Brideweser, star sophomore guard for the Lutherans, played his usual major role, and accounted for 14 points. Marietta was in the lead at the start, when Capt. Trott, of the Pioneers, sunk a basket, but the locals soon assumed a margin, and retained it throughout.

VANGUARD

A Highly Amusing Story of a Romance
Aboard a Millionaire's Yacht.

By Arnold Bennett

At last he was once more in front of the cabin tenanted by his self-transporting baggage. He carefully inspected it and found therein every device of comfort and luxury; beyond it was a bathroom of equal merit. By way of experiment he turned on a tap marked "hot," and the water which cascaded therefrom was more than scalding enough to satisfy the most exacting apostle of efficiency. He stood still, meditative, and falsely pretended to himself that he was not hurt by Miss Perkins' inconsiderate and offhand departure. He thought, besides, of all that had so inexplicably happened to him; he gazed at his luggage. He then said, aloud:

"Shall I take this business lying down?"

Now Mr. Sutherland, like many persons commonly supposed to be without a sense of humor, was capable on occasion of being most queerly and disturbingly humorous. He answered his own question:

"Yes; I shall take it lying down. I'll go to bed."

And he rang the bell by the bedside. A knock followed, and the chief steward entered.

It seemed odd to Mr. Sutherland that the bell of an ordinary guest-cabin in so important a yacht should be answered by so stately and majestic an individual as the chief steward. Mr. Sutherland, who was still successfully maintaining his nerve, thus coldly addressed the chief steward:

"Apparently my things have not been laid out."

"Sorry, sir."

The chief steward proceeded, with a dignity comparable to Mr. Sutherland's own, to unfasten the suitcase and lay out all necessary matters for the night; while the guest began to undress.

"Can I have something to drink?" asked Mr. Sutherland.

"Certainly, sir."

"What can I have?"

"Anything you like, sir."

"Well, I will have a cup of weak camomile tea; very weak, not more than one flower to the cup—if it's breakfast cup."

Mr. Sutherland often took camomile before retiring. It was in France that he had learned the digestive and sedative qualities of properly infused camomile. People, especially relatives, had tried to laugh him out of camomile, but they had failed. He was not a man to be frightened by the absurd associations of the word "camomile."

The chief steward, having departed, came back.

"Very sorry, sir. We have no camomile on board."

"No consequence. No consequence," said Mr. Sutherland blandly.

"Can I get you anything else, sir?"

Mr. Sutherland reflected.

"O lot of rum?" he suggested. Not that he had the least intention of drinking the rum, but the phrase "lot of rum" struck him as excellently marine and in keeping with the aquatic situation.

"Certainly, sir."

The chief steward disappeared and reappeared.

"Very sorry indeed, sir. We have no rum on board."

"No consequence. No consequence," said Mr. Sutherland blandly. "I regret to have troubled you. Might take that elderdown off the bed. I think I shan't need it."

The chief steward did as he was told, and went away humbled.

It was a proud moment for Mr. Sutherland; but a moment does not last very long. Mr. Sutherland reflected with grief that he had lost his berth in the train de luxe, the costly price of which was not under any circumstances returnable, and that all his appointments in London would be broken. And when, in his white pajamas, he had sunk down on the soft bed and turned out at the lights and lay listening to the faint straining sound of elaborate woodwork due to the quivering of the yacht as her twin propellers urged her through the placid moonlit waters of the Mediterranean—then, Mr. Sutherland's mood changed quickly to one of utter dismay and apprehension.

The Scream.

True, by the superb calm of his demeanor, and by his magnificent inactivity, he would compel his enemies and captors sooner or later to explain themselves and thus to play the first revealing move in the game about to begin. True, his brilliant tactics must have astonished and perhaps momentarily baffled them. But his predicament was none the less monstrous, incredible, unthinkable. He could discover absolutely no clue to the absurd, nightmarish enigma of it. The affair was too big to be a practical joke. On the other hand, if the affair was serious, as it positively must be, to what end had it been undertaken? His common sense forbade him to believe that he had fallen into the hands of bandits who would hold him to ransom. Such adventures did not happen to a big financier—save, of course, in the film studios of California. Further, his knowledge of character forbade him to believe that airy Count Veruda had wits enough to conceive and execute the enterprise of which he, Septimus, was the victim. Hence Count Veruda could only be the agent as mysterious and invisible brains as gigantically bold as they were recklessly unscrupulous. Mr. Sutherland had sufficient wisdom to be afraid. He was afraid of the mere spirited grandeur of the plot in which he found himself entangled. He had not spent twenty-five years in the city without hearing rumors, and indeed circumstantial stories, of strange, nefarious deeds attempted and accomplished for the purpose of what was called "big business." But he had never heard of anything at all comparable to the present prodigious matter. And he could think of none of his own financial schemes which might be prejudiced by the enforced absence of their author from London. As a fact, all his current schemes were completed, and the last one had been definitely completed that very morning in Naples.

Then there was the question of Miss Harriet Perkins. Was she among the conspirators? She unquestionably was. The people in authority knew that she was on board, and they knew her name; and she had answered quite calmly and obediently and shamelessly to her name. Without doubt she had been employed to keep him in the yacht while the rest of the company departed. With that aim she had inveigled him into the engine-room and by her wily arts had held him there. He had been her dupe. Mr. Sutherland had been hoodwinked by their passions before, and he had been hoodwinked. That Harriet Perkins was a vampire, as clear as daylight to Mr. Sutherland. And yet, Mr. Sutherland would not credit it. He would not believe he simply could not. Harriet was the finest feminine creature he had ever seen, or would see, and she had not duped him. Still, she was plainly a vampire, a woman, and he was her dupe. So his thought ran round and round in his head, and never stopped, and therefore never reached any conclusion.

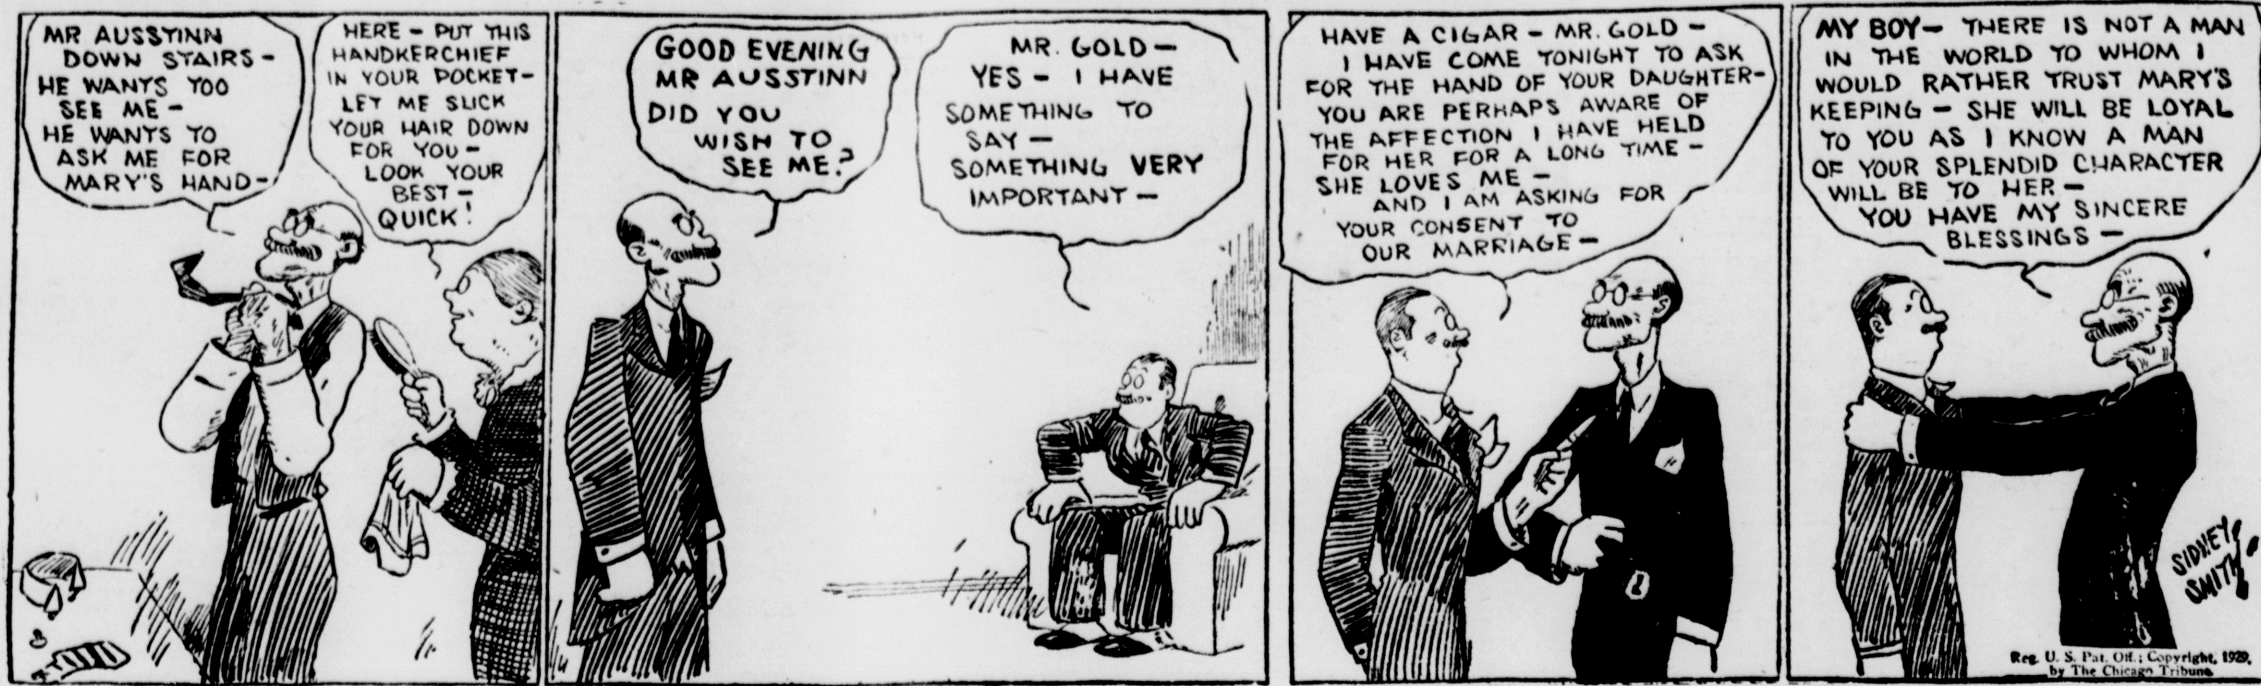

The oddest thing of all was that he did not care whether Harriet was a vampire and a villainess or not. She might be anything she chose, provided she was the unique Harriet. It was unnecessary for her to make excuses for herself. He could make all the excuses for her. She could not sin in his eyes. Such was his principal mind. But in another of his minds he perceived dispassionately what was going on in his principal mind, and he was afraid, he was terrified, by the wonders therein.

His happiness in the thought of Harriet Perkins frightened him as much as his astounding physical predicament. Awe filled him, and he trembled. Sleep was impossible. Then he woke up with a start, for sleep is never impossible. His ears had heard a scream followed by an outburst of apparently hysterical laughter or sobs. Harriet's scream! Harriet's laughter or sobs! Perhaps the laughter or sobs of a girl over-wrought by the presence of acute danger; Mr. Sutherland jumped up, switched on the light, sprang to his scarlet dressing gown (for nothing would have induced him to appear in deck in pajamas), and opened the cabin door.

Miss Harriet Perkins was invited by the gestures of a silent, thin, fair-haired young man to follow him down the stairs which led to the lower deck, where were the lounge and the dining saloon earlier put at the disposal of the twenty-three guests from the Splendide.

MENTIONED FOR CABINET PLACES AS HOOVER RESTS

When President-elect Hoover entrained at Washington for a rest and vacation he left behind the conviction that he already had decided, tentatively at least, just who should be invited to join his cabinet. Among those deemed most certain of portfolios are, I. to R. at top, William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture (retained); Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy (retained); William J. Donovan, attorney general, and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury (retained), and below, Julius Klein, secretary of commerce, and Dwight W. Morrow, secretary of state. Another report, however, says Morrow will retain his post as ambassador to Mexico.

Amusements

BETTY BRONSON ON STATE SCREEN

Sparkling with stardom, the cast of Judge Ben B. Lindsey's dramatic and entertaining exposition of modern social ills, "Companionate Marriage," a First National picture.

The leading role is played by Betty Bronson, who burst upon an astonished world of cinema fans as Peter Pan in the screen version of Sir James M. Barry's popular stage fantasy of that title, and who has since appeared in many screen roles. Judge Lindsey himself said that her better choice to portray the Sally Williams of his story could be found.

Playing opposite the petite and charming Miss Bronson is Richard Walling, son of William Walling, pioneer film actor.

William Welsh who played the father in "Over the Hills," that great success of several years ago, again has a role of the same type and scope as Betty Bronson's father in "Companionate Marriage." Arthur Rankin, who scored in "The Volga Boatman" and many other DeMille pictures plays the role of Tommy Cleve.

The role of the jazz-mad girl, scarcely second in importance to that of Miss Bronson, is said to give great historic opportunity to little June Nash.

Alec B. Francis is seen in the role of the Judge who gives advice in matrimonial matters—a sort of prototype of Judge Lindsey.

Edward Martindel and Helda Hopper are cast as the wealthy parents of the jazz-mad girl who gets married as part of a spree at a roadside cabaret. The father is maintaining two domestic establishments and the wife is only waiting for the marriage of her daughter to break away from her husband and lead her own life. Parents contrasting with those are played by Mr. Welsh and Sarah Padden whose daughter Sally, one of seven or eight children, played by Betty Bronson, is the leading character. Mr. Welsh plays a drunken workman who deserts his family. Miss Padden is the downtrodden mother, a slave to household drudgery and the rearing of children.

"OUTCAST" COMES TO AMERICAN

"Outcast," Corinne Griffiths second stellar picture under her new First National contract, a screen version of the Broadway stage success of the same name, by Hubert Henry Davies, is scheduled to start its run at the American theater Monday.

"Outcast" is a complete change from Miss Griffiths' "Garden of Eden" recently released. Delightful as that comedy was, the role of the little case who gets fired and then poses as the daughter of a baroness, thereby getting herself into all kinds of amusing complications, did not offer the high spots for emotional acting that fall to Miss Griffith in "Outcast," where the central figure is a girl of the San Francisco streets—an outcast whose experiences and development form a compelling and highly dramatic vehicle.

"If variety is the spice of life," says Miss Griffith, "it is also the spice of work for a screen actress. The greater the contrast between my successive roles, the keener my enjoyment in their interpretation. I should hate, above anything in the world, to be a 'type' actress. In these days, players are apt to be pigeon-holed as vamps, flappers, emotional actresses, comedienne, character players, and what not, but for me the zest of acting will ever be to change from comedy to tragedy, from extreme youth to middle or old age, from exotic foreign characters to healthy normal American women, from gutter snipes to the highest type of feminine nobility of character."

13 Killed in Four Years On County Grade Crossings

Jefferson and Carroll Trail Columbiana Which is Behind Mahoning and Stark in 1,288 Ohio Fatalities.

Of the 1,288 persons who lost their lives in grade crossing accidents in Ohio from 1924 to 1928, 13 were killed in Columbiana county, figures compiled by the Ohio State Automobile association show.

In the neighboring county of Mahoning, 28 fatalities were reported, while Stark listed 38, Carroll 1, and Jefferson 9. Four of the 88 counties in the state reported no crossing tragedies during the four years. Franklin county, with a death list of 77, led in fatalities, exceeding Cuyahoga which reported 72 and Montgomery with a total of 72. Hamilton was fourth with 64.

The state has set aside an appropriation of $1,000,000 annually to speed up the work of doing away with dangerous crossings.

Carelessness Blamed.

The state automobile association says:

"Appalling as these statistics may appear the greater number of such accidents were the result of failure on the part of many motorists to adhere to the repeated warnings to 'Stop, Look and Listen,' before attempting to cross railroad tracks. It is safe to say that the most of the accidents were preventable, and that had those responsible adhered to all of the rules of safety, hundreds who were the victims of such carelessness would have been spared to lives of usefulness."

"While these figures tell the story of those who instantly lost their lives in the period covering almost four years, it does not include the thousands who were maimed and crippled for life, and the many others who were injured in a more or less serious degree."

"Railroad trains approach a crossing, in all instances where there are fast tracks, at the rate of 83 feet a minute. This figure is based on the speed of 60 miles an hour, which may seem somewhat high, but the ratio is the same in only a slighter degree where the train travels at 40 to 50 miles an hour, which is normal speed for most of them."

"This being the case, it really doesn't pay to try to beat the train across."

Appalling Totals.

"In ten years, more than 20,000 persons have been killed in highway grade crossing accidents and more than 57,000 seriously injured on major steam railroads throughout the United States. This does not include those killed or injured at crossings on smaller steam railroads or electric lines."

"There are in the country as a whole more than 200,000 unprotected crossings, while in addition to that number there are more than 27,000 which are in a measure protected by gates, watchmen or signals of some variety. The Ohio State Automobile association

Prince Rigo's Widow To Wed Millionaire

The Princess Rigo and her betrothed, former Governor Edward G. Ford of Florida. Above, her engagement chateau in the hills of Spuy Duvvill.

Love Rescues Her From Poverty, Just as the Gypsy Foretold.

NEW YORK—Like one of the strange romances that befell the late Prince Rigo, gypsy violinist and spectacular heart-breaker of the nineties, is the new romance of his widow, just revealed by the princess herself.

It is the story of her coming marriage to a Florida millionaire, former Lieutenant Governor Edward Gordon, whom she met while still enduring the poverty which hastened Rigo's death two years ago. It includes also a written "compact" of helplessness; reveals, too, that the man of wealth literally saved the princess from being evicted from her little Hungarian tearoom in East Eighty-fourth street for non-payment of rent. And it tells how he insured her treasured relics of Rigo's gay and colorful career.

In her small chateau, an engagement gift from millionaire Gordon, located high up in the hills of Spuy Duvvill, the widow of royalty's gayest troubadour told a little of her romance. She is the former Katherine Hadley, daughter of a Yale professor and cousin of the famous Clara Ward, Clara Ward, while married to the Prince de Chimay, eloped with Rigo, lavished her millions upon him, and then divorced him in order that her younger cousin "might see how wonderful he was" and marry him, too. The cause of her present happiness?

tion stands for some kind of protection worth while at all grade crossings but better still the removal of all such hazardous places on the highways."

"I found Mr. Gordon and he found me because each answered the other's needs. He is the business man; I am the artist. I was poor and destitute, but I helped others poorer and more destitute than I. One day some friends of Mr. Gordon brought him to call, we became interested in helping others and the acquaintance ripened into love."

The former lieutenant-governor is fifty and a man of wide interests. Following the wedding he plans to take his bride upon a honeymoon through Europe, a leisurely, idyllic jaunt which may even parallel the wanderings of the picturesque Rigo himself. And sometime before they return to America they will visit the famous castle on the Nile built for Rigo by the Princess de Chimay at the time she made Leopold of Belgium bestow the title of prince upon the gypsy violinist.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The public utility stocks and the motor stocks were the leaders in a moderate upward movement of prices at the beginning of trading today. Compared with yesterday's sensational skyrocketing, the first period today was comparatively tame. The week-end profit-taking in the favorites held up the steam-roller movements in the week's best performers, losses in some sections extending from 1 to 7 points.

Nash motors and Packard were eagerly grabbed up in a heavy turnover of persistent rumors of a pending merger of these prominent manufacturers of fine American cars. In some of the rumors Chrysler and Studebaker were also linked up, with reports that a gigantic investment trust now in formation would be in the market for an enormous volume of motor stocks. Nash sold above 118 for a two-point gain and Packard was well bought at 144, up 1 1/2. General Motors also gained two points at 214 1/2. Hupp moved up 2 1/2.

With new shipments of gold reported, Wall street breathed a little easier on the money and credit situation. The bulls also had the breaks on the week-end trade and business reports, which were uniformly favorable. Stock sales in the first half-hour totalled 716,000 shares, against 934,000 in the same period yesterday, the decline being registered mostly in the absence today of 10,000-share blocks on the sales sheets.
